1. Definitions

1.1 Discrimination

Discrimination means adverse or less favorable treatment and any distinction or exclusion of any employee based on the employee's 'protected status'(refer to the definition below), rather than on the basis of the individual's expertise or merit with respect to the terms, conditions, or privileges of employment. This may include any acts which have the purpose or effect of impairing the recognition, enjoyment or exercise of all human rights and fundamental freedoms in the world of work.

Protected status includes but is not limited to age, disability, ethnicity, sex (including pregnancy), gender, marital status, national origin, language, political affiliation, race, color, creed, religion, nationality, citizenship, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, union membership, or any other status protected by applicable local laws and regulations.

1.2 Harassment

Harassment refers to a range of unacceptable, improper and unwelcome behaviors and practices or threats thereof whether a single occurrence or repeated which, regardless of intention, results in physical, psychological, sexual or economic harm. Harassment fails to respect the dignity and feelings of a person and creates a degrading, hostile, humiliating, intimidating, offensive, or unsafe working environment. It includes but is not limited to the following forms:

A) Sexual Harassment can be defined as any unwelcome sexual advance, request for sexual favor, or verbal, physical, or any other conduct of a sexual nature that might reasonably be expected or be perceived to cause offence or humiliation to another, when such a conduct interferes with work, is made a condition of employment or creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive work environment.

B) Physical abuse can be defined as an act of non-accidental, deliberate use of force, aggressive or violent behavior that results in bodily injury, physical harm, pain, or impairment. It can range from severe forms such as assault, violence or threats to less obvious actions of using physical force such as unwanted physical contact or touching.

C) Verbal abuse can be defined as an improper and excessive use of language to humiliate a person, or to undermine a person's dignity. It includes swearing, shouting, making demeaning comments, insulting, name-calling or any other conducts causing fear by intimidation or threats.

D) Bullying is an ongoing and deliberate misuse of power in relationships through repeated verbal, physical and/or social behavior that intends to cause physical, social and/or psychological harm such as humiliating or undermining the person's or group's sense of self-worth. It can take the form of constant negative or critical remarks, belittling one's abilities, isolating or excluding a person from social interactions, gossiping, or spreading of false information.

2. Scope

This Policy applies to all employees and requires them to treat others with dignity and respect in accordance with Samsung's Anti-Discrimination and Harassment Policy, Code of Conduct and Business Conduct Guidelines. Under this Policy, a "world of work" encompasses all actions that may arise from or occur as a result of work, which includes but is not limited to:

Samsung shall actively take steps to minimize the occurrence of harassment and to respond promptly and appropriately when harassment occurs. We acknowledge that fostering a world of work that is free from any type of discrimination and harassment and which embraces differences and diversity, creates a more respectful workplace. 5. Remedies and Sanctions

5.1. Disciplinary measures

Appropriate disciplinary action will be taken against any employee who inflicts or is involved in any act of discrimination or harassment against another individual or group in the world of work as defined under the policy scope. The harasser is liable for his or her actions and appropriate sanctions will be applied including a verbal or written warning, or up to termination of employment under the company's disciplinary policy.

Appropriate disciplinary measures shall take into account various factors, including:

- the severity, and frequency of the conduct;

- whether there have been any prior incidents or warnings.

5.2. Victim protection and anti-retaliation

Samsung is committed to ensuring that no one, including workers, witnesses or other stakeholder including those that represent victims, will be subject to any form of reprisal, intimidation or retaliation for reporting what he or she believes in good faith to be an incident of discrimination or harassment. Samsung offers a range of grievance channels including confidential, anonymous ones to manage potential risks of retaliation. Individuals who believe they are being subjected to retaliatory behavior, shall immediately raise their concerns to the company.

Samsung is also committed to keeping all complaints confidential to ensure fairness to complainants and all parties involved as well as to protecting their privacy and relevant data. Employees, supervisors, managers, and other persons who are involved in or aware of a complaint or investigation are expected to protect the confidentiality and privacy of all parties involved to the maximum extent possible and to approach cases in a sensitive manner. Information will only be disclosed to investigate and support prompt action during the complaint process, to prevent discrimination or harassment or to comply with applicable legal obligations.

5.3. Remediation

Samsung may consider various remedial measures as it deems necessary to remediate and prevent recurrence after taking into account the nature of the case and the views of the victim. Progress and implementation of remediation will be closely monitored until the remediation is completed and the case is resolved.

The victim has the right to access external dispute resolutions and other forms of judicial and non-judicial mechanisms without corporate interference or repercussions, if they choose to. It is without prejudice to the employee's legal rights under applicable local laws.
